THE COUNTY ALLIANCE.
The First Quarterly Meeting of Buncombe Farmers.
The first quarterly meeting of the Buncombe county Farmers' Alliance for this year which met in the court house Friday morning and adjourned last evening, was one of the most interesting of the order has held. There were several hundred present representing some 2,000 or more members of the order in Buncombe besides a number from Madison, Henderson, Haywood, and Yancey counties, which were present yesterday. As these sessions are held with closed doors we are able to obtain but little information of the deliberations. From the secretary we learn these facts:
M. L. Reed was elected county business agent in place of N. Plunadore, who resigned on account of ill health. Mr. Reed is a prominent citizen of this county, living on the Swannanoa river, and a successful business man. He at once filed his bond for $5,000 and is ready for work.
A committee to establish a manufactory for agricultural implements was chosen, with J. M. Brookshire as chairman, to solicit stock for such an enterprise. When the sum of $10,000 has been subscribed in shares of $10 each, the stockholders will then meet for permanent organization. Several thousand dollars were pledged before the adjournment of the meeting. The site has not been decided on, but it will no doubt be in or near this city. The alliances of the adjoining counties will co-operate in this movement and it will be known as a Western North Carolina enterprise. Other parties will be permitted to take stock with the Alliance holding a controlling interest.
The committee on education, through their chairman Major C. B. Way, offered some important resolutions devising means for the better education of the agricultural classes. This question is one of vital interest to all and it is very important that something be done.
Farish H. Folsom who recently moved to Swannanoa from Washington City, was elected general correspondent and business manager of an exchange for the handling of live stock, products, etc. for the members of the order.
The committee on public roads reported that the commissioners had granted the request of the Alliance by the improvement of two roads leading into Asheville. Further aid will be asked for. There were other subjects considered, the points of which may be gathered in the future.
Among some of the leading men who took part in the discussions were Messrs. J. W. Nash, E. D. Weaver, P. H. Folsom, Gen. Vance, F. P. Morgan, Dr. Cliff, J. B. Freeman, C. B. Way, N. A. Penland, Major Blackwell, Rev. A. I. Justice, M. L. Reed, Mr. Morgan, R. E. F. Jones, Col. Long, J. F. Tison, Rev. E. A. Fox, J. M. Brookshire, J. H. Best, John Chesborough, sr., Rev. Mr. Anderson, Rev. D. B. Nelson, J. N. Rogers, C. P. Weaver.
The body adjourned to meet in extra session on Saturday, February 1.
The Boston Quintette Club.
The audience at the Opera Hall last night was in some respects a most remarkable one, being composed entirely of our best people, and a large number of them musical. The marked and unusual attention to the program throughout showed their entire appreciation of the treat offered, for such it certainly was, and paid a much higher compliment to the Boston Quintette Club than a mere noisy enthusiasm would have done.
The program was perhaps more popular in tone than some of our musical friends might wish, but was possibly the more acceptable to the average listener on that account.
Of the different members on the program, the flute solo, a "Fantasia" of Popp's by Mr. Adolph Burose, and the violoncello solo by Mr. Louis Blumenberg are especially worthy of mention. Both gentlemen are masters of their instruments, and received enthusiastic and well merited encores.
Mr. John P. Rhodes in his violin solo, "Faust Fantasia" by Wieniawski, delighted everyone with his excellent execution.
Of Miss Carpenter's voice we must confess to some disappointment. Though sweet in some respects, it did not realize the expectations that had been formed of it from notices published elsewhere.
It is very gratifying to know that Prof. Falk's enterprise in securing the Quintette Club has been so satisfactorily remunerated, and the success of this venture will, we hope, induce other first class attractions to come here.

THEATRICAL GOSSIP.
Notes of Public Interest Concerning Footlight Favorites.
Frederick Ward, the tragedian, is making a Southern tour in "The Mountebank" with much success.
Harry P. Mawson's military comedy-drama, "A Fair Rebel," was fairly successful at its recent production at a New York theatre.
The reported engagement of Mary Anderson and Antonio F. de Navarro, who is the son of the builder of the Navarro flats in New York City, is received with doubt in theatrical circles.
Ada Rehan continues to play Rosalind in "As You Like It" at Daly's theatre in New York, in spite of the "grip," though the World says that a doctor is on the stage during her performances, ready to render medical assistance if necessary.
The dangerous surgical experience recently undergone by Lawrence Barrett in Boston has resulted successfully, and the tragedian, who is still in the hospital in that city, will go to Europe to recuperate when his strength will permit.
Fanny Davenport says that she is going to play "Theodora" next season, in spite of reports to the contrary. "Fedora," "La Tosca" and "Theodora" are all very strong dramas in more ways than one, and Davenport makes an ideal heroine in each.
The fairies in Dixey's burlesque troupe have got the "grip" in several instances. Imagine the poetical beauties in an Amazonian march tramping around in the glare of calcium lights, with half the Amazons clutching handkerchiefs and sneezing in time to the music!
Everybody who is fond of the Gilbert and Sullivan operas remember J. H. Kiley, the lively English comedian who for years took the leading comedy roles. According to the Sun his wife, a singer known as Marie Barnum, has just arrived from England, and pretty Madeline Luccette, who was supposed to be the only Mrs. Kiley, is discreetly silent concerning the new arrival.
The new Gaiety burlesque troupe, from London, which is playing "Faust Up to Date" in New York, is evidently a failure as a drawing attraction. Even Florence St. John, who is now playing Marguerite in the burlesque, can't save it. The graceful lightness of the original Gaiety burlesques is lacking, and the clumsy cheapness and atrocious puns that amuse the London "Johnnies" don't satisfy American audiences.
Mrs. Langtry, who is fond of astonishing the public, will appear next season as the Marquise de Pompadour. In one costume, made by Worth, she has her hair powdered, patches on face, and all the paraphernalia of the Pompadour period. The ultra high hair is beautified by a bunch of pink roses and orange blossom, and around the white neck is a pink silk band, to impart additional style. The dress itself had the actual connivance of royalty, for it is copied from Boncher's famous portrait of the Pompadour, by permission of the owner, Baron Rothschild. It is of white crepe de chine, accented with blue and lilac ribbons. The skirt reaches only to the ankle; lilac shoes, with mauve silk hose, are jauntily visible, and a dainty little white hat matches, and crowns the outfit. The shepherd's crook is ornamented with lilacs, lilac roses, and mauve and lilac ribbons. Thus attired, the Lily is said to present the loveliest aspect any of her admirers have yet witnessed.

PERSONAL MENTION.
Mr. L. V. Brown has just returned after a week's sojourn at his old home in Salisbury.
Mr. R. T. Sydnor, of Richmond, Va., representing Allison & Addison's fertilizers, is in the city.
W. A. James, jr., of Bethel, Pitt county, N. C., has taken the Carolina house. Mr. James has had long experience.
Jas. H. Cole, of New Found. N. C., had his nineteenth birthday last week and celebrated it by subscribing for THE CITIZEN.
Mr. A. M. Smith, a well known street and pavement contractor, recently of Greensboro, N. C., now of Middlesboro, Ky., was in the city yesterday.
Mrs. D. A. Davis, of Salisbury, and her niece, Miss Elona Hackler, of Independence, Va., who were guests of Mrs. Lewis V. Brown, returned home yesterday.
Mr. W. H. Hargrove, of Garden Creek, Haywood county, is in the city, having arrived last night from Augusta, Ga., where he has been handling fruit and other products from this county.
Captain A. F. Rice, of Bryson City, the well known bridge builder and railroad contractor, is in town. Captain Rice is at present occupied in attending to the large landed interests which he has in Swain county.
Mr. J. A. Tennent has returned from his trip north, leaving Mrs. Tennent and his family in Philadelphia. While there Mrs. Tennent and his family had an attack of la grippe, and were quite ill for several days. He still shows the effect of it. He describes the disease as painful and annoying, but not serious unless one takes a relapse.
Mr. Chas. H. Speight, formerly with the Graham Manufacturing Company, was here yesterday and leaves this morning for Greenwood, S. C., where he has been buying cotton during the past winter. Mr. Speight's many friends here will be glad to learn that he will probably return here in a few months and accept a position with his former employers.
Flower Mission.
An important meeting of the Flower Mission will be held at Mrs. Sawyer's Monday at half past three. All the members are urged to be present as business of importance, to be transacted.

OUR STREETS.
The Action of the City Council in the Right Direction.
We are glad that public attention has again been called to the condition of our streets. We hope, this time, it will result in deep interest, careful investigation and wise action. The value to our city of our climate and scenery, although a trite subject of comment by almost every one, is not yet fully appreciated by our people as a financial factor in future possibilities. We have only wisely to avail ourselves of our advantages. It is to our own ultimate benefit to do all we can to make Asheville pleasant, comfortable, and attractive to visitors. It is not as fully so now as it can be made. We have already done a great deal toward the city's permanent improvement; but those things which we have thus far left almost entirely undone, relate to just those conditions most obvious to our visitors' apprehension, and most objection to their sensibilities. The greater part of our thoroughfares still have wretched sidewalks and crossings, and the impeding dust in dry weather, and the impeding and treacherous mud in wet weather, still prevail. There ought to be no difference of opinion that these conditions should be changed, as quickly as possible. Just here is the gist of the matter. What is our financial ability for doing it? How much of the work can we undertake now? What do we undertake we must be sure of doing right. We are glad our city council has taken action in the matter. We however suggest that its action be amended so that the committee appointed on Friday night may be empowered and required to examine and report upon, not only one, but all the principal and approved methods of having roadways and sidewalks in our principal cities.
Semi-Tropical Exposition.
We acknowledge the reception of a complimentary ticket to the Florida International and Semi-Tropical Exposition, to open at Ocala, Fla., on January 15th and close April 1st. It is a serious temptation President Wilson has thrown in our way; for there can be nothing so fascinating as the display of all that Florida produces so bountifully and so beautifully, its wealth of beautiful flowers and its greater wealth of fruits where the products of the tropics and of the temperate zone meet in friendly rivalry on a common ground, and where the same relations exist between the products of agriculture and of the forest. Will we accept the invitation? Well we will spend much thought on the subject.
Crestfallen.
Our friend Deake, the postman, is unhappy. He has found all too soon that the fruits of human ambition are vain and disappointing. He no longer prides himself on his handsome uniform and seven league boots. A good old auntie with a basket of clothes on her head arrested his bounding steps yesterday with the inquiry whether he was distributing soap.
Opening of the Graded Schools.

The Street Railway.
Editor Citizen:—My attention has been called to a communication in this morning's CITIZEN from Hanford N. Lockwood. He complains of the change of the street railway track from the old to the middle of South Main street, and characterizes it as "infamous."
The city council met upon the street in question in September last, and after looking over the ground and consulting with Capt. Troy, the superintendent of streets, ordered the track to be changed. I have no doubt that they have the public interest quite as much at heart as Mr. Lockwood, and that their judgment upon such matters is quite as good as his.

Kind Words for the Citizen.
The Salisbury Watchman says: We were pleased to find a copy of the Asheville Citizen in our mail this morning, and to learn from its columns that it had again resumed publication under its old management. In our opinion the Citizen is the best daily in North Carolina and we congratulate Asheville on its resumption.

The Salisbury Truth says: We are glad to note that the Asheville Citizen resumes publication after the holidays with that excellent writer and thorough newspaper man, John D. Cameron, Esq., as editor. There is no writer in the State whose style we enjoy so much. He is clever, chaste, and always interesting. Long may he live to guide us.
